Leveraging LinkedIn for Career and Job Search Success workshop

Career and Employment Services (CES) hosted a LinkedIn workshop supported by funds raised during 2021 and 2022 for a Star Day of Giving Initiative, proposed by Career Advisor Sandy Leong. The event was held on Tuesday, Feb. 21 from noon-2 p.m. in the Gannon Building, Room 2214. It was attended by 26 LCC students and two LCC instructors. The invited guest presenter was Lisa Parker, the senior director of alumni relations at Michigan State University. This was followed by her answering questions and providing LinkedIn consultations to students who chose to receive individual assistance.

Parker stressed the importance of actively engaging on the platform, using LinkedIn as a relationship-building tool, and leveraging connections and affinity groups for job searches and other purposes. She taught students about creating a clear work goal message and strategies for conveying and marketing their message to employers. Lunch was provided. In addition, a spiral-bound notebook with a Checklist for Career Success inside and a copy of the CES guidebook entitled “Brand Yourself” were available to each attending student as take-away gifts. The link for the recording of the presentation will likely be posted on the CES website, so it can serve as a resource for LCC faculty, staff, students and alumni.

LCC launches Pop-Up Pantry to help address food insecurity

The college is providing a Pop-Up Pantry to make food available to students in need. It offers ready-to-eat options for students – like microwavable meals, granola bars, fruit, and cheese and crackers – to help ensure they do not go hungry on campus.

On Downtown Campus, the Pop-Up Pantry is open 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. every Monday in Gannon Building 2214. We hope to expand these days and times in the future, based on need, but are starting with what we can. Food is available daily at West Campus, Livingston County Center and Aviation Maintenance Technology Center.

Students do not have to apply or prove eligibility, and recipient names are not be documented. The college does ask that students bring a StarCard to show they are an LCC student, but does not actually record the names of recipients.
Moving Forward Award

Congratulations to Benita Duncan who was recognized with the Moving Forward Award on March 4 in Saginaw for her work as the first Black president of Association of Community College Trustees Professional Board Staff Network.
Marketing Department

Selected promotional materials for LCC events and programing.

Massage Therapy graduation

Massage Therapy will hold its 2023 graduation in May. Marketing created invitations, flyers and programs for the graduation ceremony.

Long-term nurse aid courses

Late-start nurse aide courses promoted via digital campus televisions and social media. In addition, a flyer was sent out to prospective students.

2023 Transfer Fair

The 2023 Transfer Fair is being promoted along with the Job and Internship Fair. The two fairs will take place on March 22. Digital signage, flyers, web and social media are mediums used to promote the event to students interested in transferring to a four-year college or university. Representatives from more than 20 colleges will be on campus to meet with students.
Job and Internship Fair

The Job and Internship Fair is taking place at Downtown Campus, alongside the Transfer Fair. The Job Fair will welcome more than 70 employers to campus looking to fill a variety of roles. The event is open to the public and is being marketed on campus and in the community.

Youth Program website rebuilt to boost user experience

The web and marketing teams worked hard to boost user experience ahead of Summer Camp registration opening on March 1. The site features smart search options as well as a streamlined registration processes. This will allow parents greater ease in registration, as well as an aesthetically pleasing interface. Internally, Youth Program staff can help prospective students’ parents with the enrollment process, and follow up with those who have not completed enrollment steps. These two changes should help the effort to increase LCC Youth Summer Camp enrollment.

Students from Livingston Educational Service Agency visit West Campus

On Feb. 3, a group of students visited West Campus from Livingston Educational Service Agency (LESA) for a hands-on tour. Students had the opportunity to engage in hands-on activities with the following programs: Machine Technology, Drones/Unmanned Aerial Systems (UAS), Mechatronics, Building Construction, Heating Ventilation and Air Conditioning Technology (HVAC), and Corrections.

LCC engages industry partner Packaging Engineering-Brighton

On Feb. 21, Packaging Engineering-Brighton visited West Campus. They were introduced to faculty members in Welding, Mechatronics and Machining, who provided information about their program area and answered questions from the group. Packaging Engineering-Brighton is recruiting for general shop laborers, material handlers, CNC operators, CNC lathe operators and CNC programmers.

HHS and Tech Careers represent LCC at CapCAN career event

On Feb. 24 Health and Human Services Division staff joined Technical Careers faculty and administrators to showcase careers at the Capital Area College Access Network (CapCAN) “Launch Your Dream” event. The all-day event was held at West Campus, with more than 200 junior and senior students from the ERESA programs in attendance.

The students participated in leadership sessions and hands-on activities with Phlebotomy Professor Kathy Lewis and Emergency Medical Services Director Jeff Butcher. Recruitment Coordinator Loretta Osborn was also on hand to provide information related to other Health and Human Services programs.

In the morning, Dental Hygiene Faculty Mary Clisch joined dental students Daisey Richter, Danielle Ingalls and Leah Gruber to provide oral care education and promote the community clinic. During the afternoon, dental students Elise Bliss, Shannon Hobson and Maycee Stebleton spoke with interested students and teachers.
LCC employees visit Parker Elementary for career exploration

Feb. 10, Emergency Medical Services Director Jeff Butcher and Community Health Services Nursing Faculty Ellen Gallavan spent the morning at Parker Middle School in Howell, speaking to more than 160 sixth and seventh grade students about health professions and engaging students in emergency skills and nursing activities. Livingston County Center Coordinator Barb Line and her office staff assisted HHS with the explorations.

International students tour Health and Human Services Building

On Feb. 9, Admissions Counselor Janelle Brinker hosted 22 international students and faculty at Downtown Campus. The day started with a welcome from the provost and culminated with a tour of the Health and Human Services Building and the Nursing Program. Nurse Shannon Scott, interim clinical coordinator, discussed the curriculum and skills labs. Professor Melissa Gray spoke about technology and simulation to prepare students for clinical rotations. The students and faculty also received a demonstration on the anatomage table used in Nursing and Emergency Medical Services instruction.

Wilson Talent Center explores health care careers

On Feb. 3, about 35 students and staff from the Wilson Talent Center in Mason visited the Health and Human Services Division to participate in a mock 911 scenario with Director Jeff Butcher and explore nursing careers with Nurse Natasha Scott. Students placed EEG electrodes on manikins under the direction of Neurodiagnostics Program Director Sarah Gardner, and took vital signs with Nurse Irie Lott using the SIM manikins. Dental Hygiene students Corinna Peterson, Chloe Gregg, Julie Eiler and Morgan Dowling provided tours of the campus student services areas, the dental classroom and the community clinic.

Visiting students also toured the Gannon Building Fitness Center to speak with Fitness Faculty Mike Ball and learn about exercise and cognition benefits as well as explore the state-of-the-art equipment. In the TLC Building, Information Literacy Lead Librarian Ami Ewald gave the students a tour and provided information on all the databases and references available in the Library. This accompanied a visit to the Learning Center, with TeAnna Taphouse and staff explaining all the services available to students. During lunch, a panel of dental students and nursing faculty answered questions about the programs and career path decisions.

SBDC participates in Middle Village cohort graduation

On Friday, Feb. 24, Regional Director Laurie Lonsdorf and Intake Consultant Seth Murphy participated in the graduation celebration for the second Middle Village Micro Market cohort. Middle Village is a retail incubator program located within Downtown Lansing Inc.’s space that is designed to give micro businesses the visibility, support and experience they need to flourish.

SBDC has collaborated with Middle Village, providing monthly trainings. The majority of the cohort have grown to the point they’re ready to move out and inhabit their own brick-and-mortar spaces, with all but one staying in downtown Lansing!

This celebration was attended by Mayor Andy Schor, the Lansing Regional Chamber of Commerce, Lake Trust Credit Union, and the Greater Lansing Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Small Business Development Center (SBDC) Impact Metrics – Jan. 1-Feb. 28:

- Consulted with 140 business clients to start or grow their businesses
- Helped those clients secure $1,376,503 of new capital to launch or grow
- Helped create six new businesses
- Helped create 18 new jobs
SBDC client testimonial:
The Eric King Agency

“I’ve been working with SBDC Senior Consultant Darryl Horton, and we talked about the growth plan, we’ve talked about loans, things I wouldn’t have thought about. I never thought I needed a commercial loan. I didn’t think I was looking to expand or do anything like that. But I’m listening to Darryl talk about things we can do, and he made sense. The very first thing I do when someone asks me or says to me, they want to start a small business, or ‘I want to be like you,’ I give them the link to the Small Business Development Center website and just tell them that’s the way you want to get started.”

LCC East and Extension Centers’ activities in February 2023

Extension Center coordinators developed academic course requests for the fall 2023 semester, using enrollment information from the past three falls, the results of a recent student survey of desired courses, and oral information about the needs of community partners.

The LCC East coordinator met with the business development managers from LCC’s Corporate Training unit to discuss ways to cross-market the LCC East Evening Business Degree Program when meeting with employers.

Consolidated Electrical Contractors hires Business & Community Institute to provide Advanced Leadership Training

BCI provided Advanced Leadership training for 10 employees from Consolidated Electrical Contractors. The training focuses on advanced communication skills, building a keen awareness of interpersonal communication skills, and applying advanced leadership skills and attributes. Participants engaged in a variety of interactive class activities. Areas of training included titles such as DiSC Assessment, Communication: Connecting through Conversation, Delegation: Engaging and Empowering People, Resolving Workplace Conflict, Leading Self: Turning Awareness into Impact, and Attitude is Everything.
Community Education and Workforce Development Division hosts Humphrey Fellows

CEWD was honored to partner with Michigan State University’s International Studies and Programs to cohost the Humphrey Fellows Luncheon and Discussion Panel on Feb. 3. Fellows of the 2022-23 cohort hailing from 11 countries met to network and enjoy a panel discussion featuring leaders from the Lansing region.

Dean Bo Garcia facilitated the event, which included comments from LCC President Steve Robinson and Michigan State University’s Brian Boggs. The panel was comprised of Michigan State Sen. Sarah Anthony, Executive Director of the Center for Data Science Matt Fall, CEO of Cristo Rey Community Center Joe Garcia, Neogen Human Resources Director Julie Mann, and LEAP CEO Bob Trezise. The discussion centered on the crucial relationship between public and private entities when developing economic initiatives.

BCI provides a Leadership Bootcamp to Crowne Plaza Lansing West

BCI provided a full leadership bootcamp to a group of new leaders at the Crowne Plaza Hotel. The Leadership Bootcamp took current and future leaders through sessions that will equip and enhance their leadership abilities. Each session ended with participants identifying an action they are willing to commit to implementing. These tools will build confidence, increase talent and enhance retention.

Koppert Biological Systems

Koppert Biological Systems in Howell selected BCI to deliver Microsoft PowerPoint II training to 12 employees. With an emphasis on advanced features in PowerPoint, training participants walked away from this course with an enhanced ability to create, collaborate on, secure and distribute complex multimedia presentations for a variety of situations. The hybrid training was hosted at West Campus with in-person participants, as well as via live stream, with online employee participation from California.

Pronoun Pin Display goes up at Library

The Library created a new Pronoun Pin Display to support our LGBTQIA+ community. By providing open access to a variety of pins, the display allows everyone to engage with and highlight their pronouns on their terms.

Envision Green helps students transition to MSU

Michigan State University Envision Green presented to students at the Cesar Chavez Learning Center on Feb. 7. Presenters Freddie DeRamus and Erika Espinoza did an excellent job, covering every aspect of the transfer and admission process at MSU. They showed the students websites and resources they can use to understand the course selection process and what classes would transfer. The program has been very successful, with two students gaining admission to MSU in the past month. One of the students, a first-generation student who moved with her family from the Middle East, said she is appreciative of the LCC resources that helped her realize her dream of going to MSU.

Pop-up academic advising available to students in Cesar Chavez Learning Center

Every other Tuesday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., academic advisors sit in the Cesar Chavez Learning Center to meet students where they are. These pop-up academic advising sessions are a great example of how the CCLC works collaboratively with other departments to build a Culture of Care.

ACCESS Scholars Program works with MSUFCU on financial seminar

Jamara Randall presented a seminar on Feb. 8 for LCC ACCESS Scholars, created in collaboration with Michigan State University Federal Credit Union and the Cesar Chavez Learning Center. Fifteen ACCESS Scholars were in attendance, as well as many LCC employees, all eager to learn about healthy financial relationships. She talked about how our choices regarding handling our finances are shaped by our emotions toward our personal financial situation. Randall also talked about how we need to take responsibility for our own credit, our loaned money and our debt. She put up a picture of a shoe and asked attendees to decide whether it was gray and teal or pink and white. From there, she identified which attendees were right-brained or left-brained thinkers. Right-brained thinkers are known to be intuitive, creative and free-thinkers, whereas left-brain thinkers are known to be logical, fact-driven and analytical. Randall then talked about how whichever side of the brain is the most prominently used is how we will also handle our financial situations.
Cesar Chavez Learning Center welcomes new employees

The Office of Diversity and Inclusion is excited to welcome three new student employees at the Cesar Chavez Learning Center. They are Bae Meh (left), who is originally from Mae Hong Son, Thailand; Marla Camacho (middle), who is from Santiago, Dominican Republic; and Julio Lopez (right), who is from Minatitlan, Veracruz, Mexico. All three have outstanding academic credentials and are also bilingual. The new student employees are tremendous assets to the CCLC and will enhance the programs and services provided.

Cesar Chavez Learning Center celebrates Black History Month

Throughout February, the Cesar Chavez Learning Center displayed posters of famous African American leaders and played African American-made music throughout the space.

Faculty provides lunch for students at Cesar Chavez Learning Center

A generous LCC professor provided lunch for over 30 students who were in the Cesar Chavez Learning Center. This was a great way for students to gather and interact with the faculty! We enjoy having faculty members visit the CCLC and connect with students.
Check out this monthly section highlighting our newest employees, who were hired last month.
